

Bahama Woodstar Nesophlox evelynae

male

female

8

FEATHERY FACTS

The star of Bahamian forests and gardens is the beautiful Bahama Woodstar. Only the males have a patch of glittering purple on their chin. When they fly, you can see that males have forked tails and females have rounded tails. Male and female birds often look different from each other.

