

Magnolia Warbler

Setophaga magnolia

About this Bird

The handsome warbler has a grey head and upperparts, black cheek, yellow throat and breast with black streaks, and broad white band on its dark tail. They migrate by night in large flocks with other warbler species. When they reach the Caribbean they can be found in almost any habitat and from sea level right up into the mountains. They feed on insects close to the ground and fruit. They are called Magnolia Warblers because the scientist who first saw them spotted them in Magnolia trees. Bird Size 12.5 cm, 5 in.
